To whom it may concern:

When I was confined to Summit Medical Center in Oakland, California, visitors told me about a harpist who was playing in the lobby. One even recorded her music on his phone for me. Then one day I was surprised to hear harp music playing somewhere near my room. I composed a note of thanks and asked my nurse to give it to the harpist. The nurse came back to tell me the harpist was pleased.

After that, the harpist came back to my floor to play just for me. I always stopped what I was doing to listen and once stopped a maintenance man from closing my door. She even asked me for requests. She plays classic tunes that are familiar to everyone.

Katherine Honey and I have since been in Email correspondence, and she gave me a CD so I could hear her music any time. She is a dear person and her music should be heard by more people who are in hospitals or institutions, or anywhere. It is soothing to the mind, body, and soul.

Sincerely,

Chloe Lietzke
